IMPORTANCE OF THE CONFERENCE:

Rivers have played a vital role in language, literature, art, and culture throughout history. Artists have been inspired by the beauty and power of rivers, and many works of art have been created around them. Rivers have been an enduring symbol in literature and have provided a rich source of inspiration for writers and poets and musician throughout history. Research on rivers can help us understand the impact of human activities on river ecosystems and the importance of preserving these ecosystems. Rivers have been an important source of transportation, irrigation, and power generation for centuries. Research on rivers can help us understand the economic importance of these waterways and the role they play in supporting local communities.

So, the primary goal of this conference is to create a forum for academics, researchers, and students of various fields to exchange ideas and do research on civilizations, cultures, and literary works based on rivers.
